GREENISEN AND ARNOLD QUALIFY AT YOUNGSTOWN

Salem Athletes Place In N. E. O. Big Ten Preliminaries

OPENING EVENTS DELAYED BY RAIN

Columbiana Coaches Call Conference On Plans For County Meet

Athletes of Salem High were battling in defense of their Northeastern Ohio track and field championship crown in competition with performers from 11 rival schools at the annual district meet at Youngstown Rayen field this afternoon.

Rain Delays Start

Rain delayed the start of preliminary events scheduled this morning for more than an hour. Finals were slated to get under way at 1 p. m. with Salem High favored to retain the championship held by Quaker contestants six times in the last seven years.

Boardman High was ranking favorite to capture the Class B crown again.

Two Salem athletes qualified in preliminary events, Bruce Arnold advancing into finals of the 100-yd. dash while Greenisen qualified in the 120-yd. high hurdles. Each placed second in his heat in preliminary contests.

Waggle, Leetonia star hurdler, took an easy first in Class B high hurdle prelims and is conceded a chance to set a new record in finals this afternoon.

Confer on County Meet

Columbiana county school coaches plan to hold a meeting at the close of the meet tonight and confer on plans for the annual county meet, scheduled here last Saturday but which was postponed by rain. The meet has tentatively been set for next Tuesday night under floodlights of Reilly athletic stadium. Seven schools, Salem, Leetonia, Lisbon, East Liverpool, Columbiana, East Palestine and Wellsville, are scheduled to compete.

Star On Gridiron Skids In Ball Room

(By Associated Press) COLUMBUS, O., May 13.—Damon Henry "Buz" Wetzel, Ohio State university football whose nimble feet and deceptive hip-shift carried him through many an opposing team for gains on the gridiron last fall, went to a hospital early today after he fell at a sorority dance.

Wetzel, 22, and a member of Beta Theta Pi, was released after treatment for head lacerations. Hospital attendants said the football star told them he tripped and fell during a Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority dance at the Columbus Country club.

Flood Is Receding

DAYTON, O., May 13.—Flood waters from the Miami river receded today from thousands of acres of lowland above Dayton after driving 100 families from their homes when a dam broke.

Several inches of water still were in houses in the suburbs of Eldorado and Miami Villa.

Overflowing streams were reported also to have driven out several families near Versailles, Darke county, and Xenia, Greene county.

Dietrich Will Vacation Abroad

Beautiful Marlene Dietrich, celebrated German film star, is pictured with Leslie Howard, British movie actor, as they chatted at the dinner dance recently tendered to Miss Dietrich by studio associates in Los Angeles. The party was by way of a send-off to the German star, who is returning to her native land for a vacation. Note the exaggerated version of the masculine dress bow Miss Dietrich wears.

Mother's Day Is Observed At Special Church Rites

Appropriate Sermons Planned Sunday; Church Banquets Attract Large Throngs

Salem churches have planned to give recognition to Mother's day Sunday in special sermons and songs.

The Concord Presbyterian church and the Greenford Christian church have also announced special programs for the day.

The origin of Mother's day is attributed to Miss Anna Jarvis of Philadelphia, and it is now quite generally observed over the country on the second Sunday of May.

The purpose of the day is to offer an occasion when everyone may give public expression of his love and reverence to the mothers of the country.

Mother-Daughter Banquets

In Salem, Mother-Daughter banquets are becoming more popular each year among church organizations and fraternal units as a part of the local celebration.

The largest Mother-Daughter banquet that has ever been held in this city, so far as is known, was that Friday evening at the Presbyterian church, attended by 450 women, including mothers, their daughters and guests. Men of the church assisted in serving the meal.

This party was sponsored by the women's organization of the church. It was held in the chapel, which was beautifully decorated with spring flowers.

The guest speaker was Mrs. Eliza Sherk, Cleveland. Mrs. Sherk is employed as a pastor's assistant at the Old Stone church, Cleveland. She spent six years in Persia, where her husband was a physical education teacher in an American college.

Mrs. Sherk's daughter, Sylvia, accompanied her, and she told about Persian daughters. They had an exhibit of Persian articles.

Music on program

Miss Grace P. Orr, supervisor of music in Salem's public schools, led the group singing. She composed a number of choruses appropriate to the occasion. Miss La Vaughn Simpson was the accompanist.

Rev. R. D. Walter, pastor of the church, gave the invocation.

Mrs. Stanton Heck was toastmaster. Here is the program: "Toast to Mothers," Miss Helen Keontz; "Toast to Daughters," Mrs. (Continued on Page 4)

Methodist Class Will Sponsor Play

Under the auspices of the Unity Bible class of the Methodist Episcopal church, a group of members of the Epworth league of the Winona church will present a play at 8 p. m. next Tuesday evening at the Salem church.

The entertainment will be held in the junior class room.

"Here Come Three Knights" is the theme of the play and the cast includes: Edward Dunn, Kenneth Coppock, Ramon Whinnery, Lois Walton, Donald Coppock, Mary Godward, Esther Hoopes, Camille Moore, Alta Mae Stackhouse, Kathryn Cope and Albert Dunn.

Rev. A. R. Anderson is director and Lowell J. Whinnery, stage manager.

An offering will be taken. Children attending must be accompanied by parents.

Plan Union Rally of C. E. Societies

LISBON, May 13.—A county union rally of Young Peoples' Societies will be held in the Methodist Episcopal church, Columbiana, the evening of May 22, the event being in charge of Frank Reeder, president of the County Christian Endeavor Societies.

Devotions will be led by Benjamin Anderson of the East Palestine Lutheran church, while music will be by young people from the Baptist churches of the county. Rev. Raymond Walters of the Salem Presbyterian church will be in charge of the "pep" singing.

The guest speaker will be Rev. Robert Galbreath, D. D., President of Westminster college, New Wilmington, Pa.

F. TROY COPE TO HEAD EXECUTIVE UNIT IN DRIVE

Community Chest Campaigners Organize for Three-Day Job

ECONOMY IS MADE CANVASS KEYNOTE

Memorial Building Example of How Expenses Have Been Cut

Organization of forces for Salem's annual Community Chest campaign was given further impetus today with the announcement by Earl S. Kerr, general chairman, of the appointment of F. Troy Cope as chairman of the executive committee of 62 members.

The chest drive will get under way next Wednesday evening at a meeting of team workers and others at the Memorial building, when final instructions will be given the campaigners.

Economy Prevails

The goal for the drive this year is $12,000, much less than the figures of other years, and indicating the steps that have been taken to effect economy all along the line.

Among the various organizations participating in the chest, the Memorial building looms as an outstanding example of efforts to achieve economical operation everywhere possible.

Nine years ago 72,000 admissions were recorded at the building and it cost $28,000 to operate. Last year, the cost of operation was cut to $6,200 and this year an even further reduction is to be made in expenses.

During the year, however, the admission figure rose to 322,000. Sixty organizations were given the privileges of the building. There were 72 girls' and boys' basketball teams making it their headquarters, as well as 28 softball teams and four volleyball teams, under the supervision of Manager J. M. Kelley. In addition, 6,800 visited the playgrounds.

Salaries Are Reduced

Salaries a year the building was $12,000. Last year they had dropped to $3,300.

During the past winter the building has been the headquarters for hundreds of school children daily. Here they are given their daily noon meal by various church and other organizations of the city.

The scope of the building's usefulness to the community also is seen in the advantage it offers to Salem's annual farm institute. It is recorded that more than 1,000 persons have been present at a single session of the institute there.

Various other groups—the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Campfire Girls—make it their headquarters.

Women Officers Present Program

The women officers of Goshen grange put on the program at a meeting Friday evening at the hall, northwest of Salem.

These numbers were given: Song by the grange; reading, "The House of Clay"; Mrs. C. D. Carr; paper, "Ohio Our Homeland"; Mrs. Elizabeth Pow; vocal solo, "Beautiful Ohio"; Miss Naomi Shinn; poem, "Let's Go and Let's Stay"; Lois Ingram; reading, Sara Starbuck; paper, "Mothers Day"; Mrs. Homer Gray; vocal duet, Misses Naomi Shinn and Ruth Venable, with Miss Venable playing the accompaniment; reading, "The Day After Mothers Day"; Laura Belle Hall; humorous original paper, Mrs. Wilford Miller; original paper, "The Primer Lesson"; Mrs. Jonathan Schaefer; song by six juvenile girl officers; reading, "New Lease on Life"; Doris Maxine Miller; vocal solo, Mrs. Alvin Carr with Mrs. E. E. Bousal at the piano.

The grange will give a benefit party next Tuesday evening at the hall. A program is being arranged and refreshments will be served. Two candidates were obligated in the first and second degrees.

Those who had part on the juvenile lecture hour program were: Robert Sanders, Vernon Lee Kamper, Mabel and Ruth Burton, Helen Sangree and Laura Belle Hall. The juveniles had one visitor from Garfield.

Cut Is Cancelled

WILLIAMSBURG, O., May 13.—A ten per cent wage reduction was cancelled by the P. Sullivan Shoe company, A. M. Stann, member of an arbitration committee announced.

However, it was stipulated that the terms be accepted by employees at both the local and Georgetown plants, who struck several days ago. The Williamsburg employees have accepted.

Keeps His Seat

CINCINNATI, May 13.—A proposal to unseat Fred Schneider, chairman of the Hamilton county Republican central committee, was rejected by the county executive committee, 15 to 2.

A demand for Schneider's resignation was made by Maj. Chester S. Durr, township chairman, who accused him of inability to grasp a party principle.

Will Name Officers

The annual meeting of the Hope Cemetery association will be held at the Memorial building next Saturday night, May 20. A. E. Beardmore, secretary, announced today.

Election of officers is planned at the meeting. Miss Elsie I. Edwards is president.

Mrs. Owen, daughter of the late William Jennings Bryan, is the first woman to represent this country as envoy to a foreign power. At left is Miss Mary N. Hopkins, "junior" secretary, and right is Miss Helen Lee Doherty, daughter of Henry L. Doherty, utilities magnate, who will serve on Minister Owen's staff.

Beloit Graduates to Hear Damascus Minister, Now 86

Rev. John Pennington, Oldest Pastor In Ohio Yearly Meeting, Is Baccalaureate Speaker

Rev. John Pennington, Damascus, who is in his 87th year, has accepted an invitation from the graduating class of the Beloit High school to give the baccalaureate sermon on Sunday evening, May 21, at the Beloit Friends church.

Rev. Pennington is the oldest minister in Ohio Yearly meeting of Gurney Friends, which embraces Friends churches in Ohio, parts of Michigan, Iowa, Pennsylvania, Virginia and North Carolina, and the veteran minister of this district, so far as is known.

Quotes From Memory

An evidence that the aged minister has retained his faculties to a remarkable degree is the fact that in speaking at a service recently he quoted a Bible lesson from memory, instead of reading it.

Four members of the Damascus Friends church, all women, are 85 years old. Two of them, Mrs. Sara Maris and Mrs. Hannah Lloyd, are elders in the church. The other two are Mrs. Almyra Crum and Mrs. Emma Winder.

Among the oldest members of this church are Mrs. Mary Anna Pim, 84; Enoch McClurg, 80, and Mrs. Esther Hobson, 80.

Proves Healthy Spot

That the village of Damascus is one of the most healthful "spots" of the district and a favorite with aged persons is evidenced by the number who have chosen this town in which to spend their declining years.

Mr. and Mrs. Lotis Callahan aged 85 and 84 respectively, are among its residents, while some of the older people are: O. V. Delzell, 80; Mrs. Mary Jane Greenwalt, 80; and Samuel Reynolds, who has passed his 80th birthday anniversary. Reynolds is a former Salem resident.

Jehu C. Stanley, one of the village's oldest residents, who has been spending the winter in Florida, probably will return home this month.

"Famous Mothers" Is Grange Topic

"Famous Mothers of History" were discussed by Frederick Cope, who gave the main talk on a Mother's day program at a meeting of Salem grange Friday evening at the hall, Depot rd.

The roll call response was "Examples of mother love among animals that you have seen or heard."

Other numbers were: "Tribute to Mothers," Ellis Satterthwaite; vocal duet, "Wonderful Mother of Mine," Mr. and Mrs. Willis Zimmerman, with Mrs. Zimmerman playing the accompaniment; "Mother's Place in the Home and Community," Paul Wilms; songs, "Lamp Lighting Time in the Valley" and "Meet Mother in the Skies" by a quartet composed of Mrs. Willis McArthur, Miss Esther Vincent, F. L. Vincent and Bert Vincent. Songs by the grange were interspersed through the program.

C. D. Carr gave a talk in the interest of insurance. Refreshments were served.

A Memorial day program will be given at a meeting in two weeks.

On Sunday, May 21, the members will attend in a body the morning service at Phillips church, south of Salem. The pastor, Rev. Edgar McDonald, will preach a special sermon to the grangers. This service will be in observance of Rural Life Sunday.

CHANGES ARE MADE FOR THREE OFFICES

Mayor's Pay Cut to $1,800 for 1933-34; Solicitor's from $1,800 to $1,500 and Treasurer's From $375 to $300

Here's Proposed New Salary Schedule

Office	1932 Salary	Present Salary	Proposed Salary
Mayor	$2,500	$1,912.50	$1,800
Solicitor	2,400	1,800	1,500
Treasurer	1,800	1,275	1,225
Council Pres.	350	375	300
Councilmen	125	112.50	112.50

Salaries of Salem city officials, affecting those officers who will occupy elective posts in 1934 and 1935, were established by members of city council at a special meeting at city hall Friday night.

Reductions ranging from six to 20 per cent were made in three of 12 elective offices, while nine others, including the auditor, president of council and seven council posts, remaining unchanged.

The proposed figures, arranged after a discussion of almost four hours, will be incorporated in an ordinance to be considered by members of council in their regular meeting next Tuesday night.

An annual salary of $1,800, a drop of slightly less than six per cent from the present figure of $1,912.50, was established for the office of mayor but the sharpest reduction was made in the figures set for the post of city solicitor.

Urges Longer Terms For Township Aids

LISBON, May 13.—County commissioners have been petitioned by the County Trustees' and Clerks' association to urge the passage of the Bestwick, or House Bill 564 now pending in the legislature, and having for its purpose the extension of the term of township trustees from two to four years.

It has been pointed out by the county association that trustees who have been serving during the last two years and rendering relief should be continued in office because of their knowledge of the existing local township conditions.

K. of C. Will Hold State Convention

COLUMBUS, O., May 13.—The annual state convention of the Knights of Columbus will open here tomorrow for a two-day session. Among the speakers at a banquet Monday night will be Governor White, Supreme Knight Martin A. Carmody of Grand Rapids, Mich., and State Deputy George O'Brien of Alliance.

Considerable discussion was held on the majority of positions. A debate of more than two hours was held on salary proposals for mayor and solicitor offices.

'PLANT' CHARGED IN LINDY CASE

Means says Body Was Not That of Lindy's Kidnaped Child

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, May 13.—Gaston B. Means, kept his promise and gave what he swears is the "real low-down" on the Lindbergh baby kidnapping mystery.

It was inscribed today in the records of the District of Columbia supreme court where for two days sensational crowds have been held in breathless suspense by one of the most amazing stories ever unfolded.

Charges "Plant"

Means brought his narrative to an astounding climax yesterday with the testimony that the body Col. Charles A. Lindbergh identified as his first-born son was in reality a "plant" and not the "real Lindbergh child."

A weekend recess was taken in Means' trial today. He and Norman T. Whitaker are accused of conspiring to steal $35,000 from Mrs. Evelyn Walsh McLean, distinguished society woman, on the pretext that they could ransom and recover the stolen child of the famous film.

Whitaker, known as the "fox," may take the stand Monday. If so, new sensations may be forthcoming. Means already has been sentenced to 15 years for stealing $104,000 from Mrs. McLean in the ransom hoax.

Gives Kidnapers' Names

In his testimony Means gave the names of kidnapers, how the Lindbergh baby was stolen, where Mrs. McLean's money was hidden and told of a rambling chase over half the country in an effort to recover the tiny victim.

The defendant testified that Wellington Henderson, of Detroit, whom he described as the ringleader of the kidnapers, was the one who told him that the body found near Hope well was a "plant". That was on May 17, 1932.

"Henderson told me," Means said, "that the real Lindbergh baby was alive and in Juarez, Mexico."

Release Bicknell

INDIANAPOLIS, May 13.—Police announced the release of Andrew Bicknell of Franklin, O., who had been held for questioning in connection with the slaying of Police Sergeant Lester Jones. Five other men are under indictment because of the killing, which occurred in an attempted holdup.

Missouri's Plan

TULSA, Okla., May 13.—Well, here we are flying out of Tulsa, the first town in America to become a city. This is one of the best and busiest airports in our country.

Oklahoma wants to vote on the beer thing, but they have no money to pay for the election. So Missouri offers to pay for Oklahoma's election, provided Oklahoma will guarantee to vote dry and let them have the sales privilege, as they do now.

Corn is 40 and 50 cents a bushel, but no farmer has any. He sold last fall and winter at 15 cents. They thought Roosevelt was just another president.

A. B. &amp; L. QUESTION

The decision of the Cuyahoga county court of appeals holding that deposits in building and loan companies may be applied to mortgages in the same institution should not end the matter, especially since two common pleas courts have ruled the opposite.In cases where building and loans are solvent the practice would be the acme of wisdom but when no institution of the kind in the state and probably the nation has escaped the freezing up of its assets it may serve to injure the customer who has a deposit but no mortgage.Cancelling mortgages by applying deposits thereto gives such a patron the full face value of his deposit. On the other hand, the depositor who has no loan of debt in the same institution has to wait and take his fractional share of the residue after liquidation.As the mortgage assets are lowered the equity which protects the strictly depositor-customer is decreased and his prospects of real-

Sinusitis May Be Due To Neglect

Victims of sinusitis bitterly complain when there are sudden changes in the weather. Temperature changes aggravate this common affliction. There are pain and discomfort in the face, forehead and around the eyes.The nasal sinuses are a group of air cells located in the bones,
close to the nose.
Sinusitis is an inflammation of one or more of the nasal sinuses.
It becomes chronic if it is not treated.Pain in the forehead, eyeache or any pain in the face should never be neglected. I am confident that if all sufferers from acute sinusitis received immediate medical attention chronic sinusitis would not be a common disease. But, as it is, the number of cases is legion.I am often asked what causes sinusitis. It most frequently follows attacks of colds, coryza, influenza, pneumonia, and other infectious diseases. The germs reach the nasal passages and sinuses and cause an inflammation.Another common factor in producing this disagreeable trouble is swimming and diving in water contaminated by germs. Infected teeth, tonsils and adenoids may lead to infection of the sinuses.Infected Sinuses Menace Health Persistent sinusitis is an uncon-

Dr. Copeland

fortable ailment. It undermines the general health and may lead to serious constitutional disorders. Just as infected teeth and tonsils are a menace to good health, infected sinuses also impair the body strength.Pus that accumulates within the sinuses leads to poisoning of the system. This is often the underlying cause of such ailments as arthritis, rheumatism, hay fever, asthma,
heart disease, backache, high blood pressure and diseases of the kidney.As a rule, the victim of sinusitis complains of head pains. He may have discomfort and pain elsewhere in the body. Sinusitis should be suspected when other points of infection have been eliminated.Inflammation of the sinuses can be recognized by X-ray pictures of the face and by means of a simple test called the "transillumination test". It is a simple procedure and gives the physician valuable information.

A Simple Test

In this test the patient is placed in a darkened room. A small syl-inder containing an electric bulb is placed in the patient's mouth and his lips closed over it. When the sinuses are clear, the light will shine through the cheeks. If pus is present the light is not clearly transmitted, and shadows show.Chronic sinusitis is difficult to cure. It requires prolonged and extensive treatment. Before cure can be hoped for surgery may be necessary in some cases. Bear in mind that neglect makes the disease more difficult to cure. You can help your physician by eating plenty of nourishing food, obtaining an abundance of fresh air and sunshine and adequate hours of rest.

Answers to Health Queries

T. L. Q.—What do you advise for tetter?
A.—Send self-addressed, stamped envelope for further particulars and repeat your question.A. G. A. Q.—I should like advice regarding the condition of my teeth.
I am 24 years old and my teeth seem to be decaying. Would a proper diet be helpful in this case? I do not eat excessive sweets.A.—Careful attention to your diet should be of general benefit. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.PARIS—A crystal palace in the middle of the Seine as an exhibit for the 1937 exposition in Paris, has been proposed by M. Aime Berthod, former minister, who is now commissioner general. If plans for the exposition advance in the future with the same enthusiasm with which they have begun, new sections of land at Issy-les-Moulineaux will be used and by the time of the fair
it is expected that the Metro will go to Versailles. Special boats will take visitors to the fair and they will have a stop-off at the Ile des Cygnes—"Island of the Swans"—in the Grenelle section, where an exposition of maritime life will be held.VALDOSTA, Ga.—Elish Simpson has a bulldog who saved his own dog's life by calling for help. The dog was bitten by a cottonmouth moccasin while running in a field.
He climbed upon a stump, bent his injured leg at the knee, and barked long and loudly. Simpson heard the barks from some distance, but knew something was wrong. He hurried to the rescue. The dog showed him the snake. Simpson killed it and took his dog to a doctor.BORDEAUX—The 17th annual Colonial and International Fair will be held here June 18 and will last two weeks. The Minister of Colonies will open the fair, which will be dedicated to counsellors of foreign commerce and international physical education.

The Stars Say:

For Sunday, May 14

Sunday's horoscope is a fortunate and happy one for domestic, social, romantic and artistic affiliations and is also a fortuitous one for those in the employment of others. Advancement, preferment and favors should be sought under this planetary dominion. Accept sudden change and travel with due consideration and be careful with strangers. Safeguard the finances.Those whose birthday it is may look for a pleasant and profitable year especially in the private relations. But make changes with proper consideration.A child born on this day should have many social graces and talents fitting it for honors and preferment in life. It should have a happy disposition and be very popular.

For Monday, May 15

Monday's astrological forecast may not be read as a favorable or happy one. Signs of delay, disappointment and frustrating circumstances may make achievement difficult.Those whose birthday it is may have a year in which things may move slowly, with tenacious obstacles to overcome, or postponements or disappointments to reckon with.
Also the physical health or that of an elderly person may contribute to this anxiety or aggravate a difficult position. Sign all writings with precaution and do not put much faith in inferiors.A child born on this day may be slow, studious and probably depressed or given to the serious studies and adventures of life.

Temple Belle

Wearing her crown and ermine,
Miss Virginia E. Dengler, of Elver-son, Pa., makes a truly regal picture as she rehearses her "queen-

lected to reign over the May Fete at Temple University, the annual pageant which is the big day of the year at the Philadelphia college.TAXI PHONE 88

By O. O. McINTYRE.

NEW YORK, May 13.—The Sealyham has his say. I'm supposed to be a clown dog just because I haven't the dignity of the Boston.
My hair won't lay straight. But nobody's supposed to have dignity when they're just two going on three. What do they expect? Anyway I'm not over my fright yet.I was born—might as well be autobiographical, all the writers are—in Beverly Hills. Out on the Ben Ray Meyers place. One time in New York while dining with my present master, Mr. Meyer said:
"How'd you like to have a Sealyham?"—not knowing that bird would take anything offered.So, Mr. Meyers returned and I was taken from two brothers, a sister and an adoring mother. I never saw my father. I've heard he is now a retired Don Juan on the Will Rogers place. Also I understand he deserted many other ladies in his day, the old Casanova.They nailed me in a box and put me on a train. That trip is why I'm such a fraidy at sudden noises. For five days it was a night mare of hitches, quick stops, strange whistles and clanging bells. Just the other day they took me down to a railroad station and I tossed a conspicuous fit right before all those people.Crossing the continent they gave me food but I didn't want to eat.
O. well, not more than four or five times a day. I thought I would never get to wherever I was going.
It looked like dirty work at the cross roads. I was only an itty-bitty shaver who had never been out of the yard.Finally when I'd lost hope we went through a dark tunnel and stopped a long while. Some men came around, lifted me into an express wagon and the next thing
I knew I was in my new home.
They took me in the back way when as a matter of fact I have a pedigree longer than anyone around this house. I go back to the Huguenots but from the start they never appreciated me in this house.Everybody crowded around while they uncared me, peeping and making cracks. Finally they lifted me to the floor and there I was in the kitchen. I shook myself of a few dog-dads picked up along the way
such as nails, bolts, pieces of twine
and a smear or so of axle grease.
Then Harry, the colored man, gave me a bath and would you believe it I was as clean, fluffy—and may I add pure?—as the driven snow.
Then he rolled me in a blanket and I had the sweetest snooze since I left mama. I certainly hit it off, great guns.Some time later—after theater, I think—I was awakened and saw my new mistress and master bending over me. They were dressed up like Mrs. Astor's plush horse. I have some of my father's flattery
so I wagged my tail, sniffed their shoe tips and licked their outstretched hands. Then I decided to cute them. So I raced around the house in dizzy whirls, winding up before them on one haunch with my pink tongue clear down to here.
I knew I had them smack in the palm of my paw. They were mine for the asking.The master is skinny and something of a comic valentine. The mistress is my choice and the Boston's too, but the master always speaks of us as "My dogs!" He thinks he's quite a person but you ought to see him in long underwear. They gave me the sassiest name—Rainbow. Isn't that darling?
Sound like mother's little beam
of light when as a matter of truth I'm a hard nut. You ought to see me when nobody's looking. Pop in some time and get an eyeful of the plano legs. I gave every one of them the business after I had been spanked plenty for gnawing the

Royal Democrats

Apparently Belgium is a country where royalty is not surrounded by the high fence of social distinction,
if one may judge by this picture.
Princess Astrid, wife of the heir-apparent, Prince Leopold, is pictured with her daughter, Princess Charlotte, as they stood on the curb amid a crowd that watched a Brussels parade in honor of her father-in-law, King Albert, on the occasion of his birthday.seat out of a chair. I began gnawing on a kitchen stool and worked up to piano legs in less than ten days.
See that big hole in the parlor carpet. Well, that's mine after I'd had a tough day chasing a cat. I don't know my own strength.The Boston thinks he has me bluffed. He nipped me the first day when I was all scared up from traveling and I let him get away with it. But every dog has his you-know and will the fur fly. He hasn't many teeth anyway. It's not bad in the city but I'll take California. How I miss those palm trees! I'd like to see some tough dogs, too. All I see have leashes, fancy collars and other fol de rol.
In the park the other day I even found myself playing with a Pekinese that wore a pink ribbon neck bow. Imagine what the gang in California would think of that!

HOLY TRINITY ENGLISH LUTHERAN

East State st. at Woodland ave. Rev. George D. Keister, pastor. Fourth Sunday after Easter. Sunday school 9:45 (Mark 11:1-33). Paul Wilms, Supt.

It is no idle word to say that Jesus Christ is King. Mockingly, some said this about Him at the time of His crucifixion. Little did they realize what a tremendous truth they were stating. The empires and kingdoms of earth have arisen and fallen but the kingdom of Jesus Christ has gone on from glory to glory. There is no king comparable to Jesus. His Kingdom is not in this world. It shall endure when time shall be no more. Now this truth about the King Christ Jesus. Is of no value to anyone personally, unless this Kingdom is accepted and followed. The Master must be Lord of our lives if the full blessing is to be realized.

Morning worship 11. Sermon, "Honoring Motherhood". The ten commandments are divinely given. Their origin is not from man. The fourth commandment is about the proper relationship to parenthood. Parents are to be respected and honored by divine command. It must have been considered important to the will of God, that children properly respect their parents and superiors that such a command. It must have been considered. Mother's day if rightly observed will inspire mothers to accept the great responsibility that is theirs. It will stir up the minds of children to be grateful for the sacrifices and the labors of parents. God has deemed such a spirit to be the proper one.

"When at home...
be chic" ---SAYS ANNE ADAMS

—and through her smartly individual house dress and apron patterns shows you how!

Anne Adams lavishes as much attention on her "styles for sweeping" as she does on her exquisite afternoon and formal frocks, for it is her belief that a comfortable, sensibly designed and becoming house frock actually lightens domestic cares.

Patterns for such house frocks and aprons appear frequently in the Anne Adams pattern feature published in this newspaper every day; and several pages of these patterns appear in the Anne Adams pattern catalog which may also be ordered through our Pattern Department.

The Wash Goods departments of the stores have plenty of good, durable, tubable materials and Anne Adams particularly recommends gay, all-over prints or bright solid colors.

9:45, Church school. George W. Bunn, Supt. Orchestra directed by John W. Hundertmark.

Junior church convenes during the last half hour of the morning worship, and is directed by Mrs. Lee Vincent, assisted by Morrison Justice and Mary Campbell. The Juniors are in the church auditorium at 10:55 for a sermonette by the pastor. Sermonette subject, "The Beehive Drones".

10:55, morning worship—Mother's day. Sermon, "Honor the Mothers".

There is a vital reason why we observe Mother's day. "Good motherhood is the basis of all our prosperity," said Miss Anna M. Jarvis, a young Sunday school teacher in the Quaker City. Her mother was of the old fashioned, godly kind, who had been a devoted teacher in the primary department. Faithfully she had taught children, and their children, and their children's children. To honor this God-fearing mother and veteran teacher, one second Sunday in May, Miss Jarvis presented each of the children with a white carnation. Later all the pupils in the school received a carnation.

The symbolism of the idea caught the popular mind, and the matter was brought to the attention of the International Sunday school association. In 1914 congress authorized the President of the United States of America to proclaim the second Sunday in May of each year as Mother's day.

7:30 in the church auditorium, a Memorial program will be presented by our young people in honor of the mothers of our church. Taking part in the program will be a group of boys and girls from the Campbell Christian Neighborhood House, brought by Rev. Zoltan Irshay.

Wednesday, 1:00—Division 3 of the Ladies' Aid will have luncheon in the chapel. Please bring cover-dish, sandwiches, and your baby picture. The officers will be hostesses.

Friday evening, at 7:30 (prompt). Division 2 of the Ladies' Aid will meet at the home of Mrs. Robert Simpson, 837 Franklin st.

Next Sunday, May 21, the union evening services will begin. The first of these summer meetings together will be held in the Christian church at 7:30.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE Society

217 North Lincoln Ave. Morning service at 11 o'clock, also broadcast over WJAY Sunday at 11 a. m.

Wednesday evening service at 8 p. m. Sunday school for pupils up to the age of 20 years at 9:45 a. m.

"Mortals and Immortals" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, May 14, 1933.

The Golden Text is: "Thou art no more a servant, but a son; and if a son, then an heir of God through Christ". (Gal. 4:7).

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Stand fast therefore in the liberty wherewith Christ hath made us free, and be not entangled again with the yoke of bondage". (Gal. 5:1).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The of the divine Mind must end human bondage, or mortals will continue unaware of man's inalienable rights and in subjection to hopeless slavery, because some public teachers permit an ignorance of divine power—an ignorance that is the foundation of continued bondage and of human suffering."

CHURCH OF GOD

West State st. Church school 9:45 a. m. Sermon 10:45 a. m., subject, "God's Visit to His People". Luke 7:16. Bible study, 7:30. Speaker, G. A. Tabor.

Elizabeth Fry Class
For a number of years the Elizabeth Fry class of the First Friends church has had an annual dinner for the mothers of the members and the dinner last night at the church was one of the most enjoyable the class has given.

The meal was served in the basement which was enhanced with spring flowers. A number of pretty lamps were used effectively through the room.

The party was arranged by the social committee, made up of Mrs. Harold England, Mrs. H. Mer Ellyson and Mrs. Oscar McCammon. Mrs. N. A. Lewis, president of the class, presided.

Brief talks were given by the teacher, Mrs. L. L. McGluggage and the assistant teacher, Mrs. Ward Allen. These were a part of an informal program of songs, readings and talks.

Out of town guests were Mrs. H. S. Naylor, Beloit; Mrs. Sylvester Jackson and Mrs. Regal Damascus; Mrs. Frank Simmons, Leota, R. D. and Mrs. Louis Denkhause, Winona.

ATTEND SYNOD

COTTONS FOR EVENING

Organdies and Linens, Smart but of Simple Designs, for Formal Functions

By MARIE MAROT

WHAT COULD be smarter for the smartest of formal functions than the lovely organdie frock shown to the left of the sketch? It has been kept very simple, merely embroidered all over in a sort of eyelet effect, quite in keeping with the fabric. There are bands of plain organdie edging the little cape, thus matching the belt and hem of the frock, which, like the cape, is white. The other frock is also really a cotton affair, although it looks so grand. It is of fine linen, a little heavier than handkerchief linen. The plaid is one of those indefinite, shading affairs, in all tones of green. The deepest of the greens is repeated in the velvet ribbon which runs around the low décolletage and breaks in a bow at the base of it.

COLUMBIANA

Mother's day will be observed Sunday with special features and sermons in Columbian churches. At 7:30 p. m. the Methodist church will present a "Pageant of Motherhood," directed by Mrs. Evan Rolter, with Mrs. Edgar Miller as choir director.

Following is the program: "Sleep Baby Sleep—Traditional, choir; Episode 1—Babyhood—solo, "Baby," Mrs. Dick Fitzpatrick; "When He Cometh" choir; episode 2—Childhood—"Saviour Hear Us We Pray," Mrs. G. G. Patchen; Martha Mae Patchen; "Shepherd of Tender Youth," choir; episode 3—Young Manhood—"Song of Mothers," Stoner, Mrs. C. R. Todd, Robert Todd; solo, "Mother O' Mine," Tours, Mr. R. J. Miller; Episode 4—Family—"Home, Sweet Home," Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Moore, Robert Moore; "The Light of Home," German melody, choir; episode 5—Youth—"That Wonderful Mother of Mine," Mrs. E. S. Coblenz, Miss Helen Coblenz; "God Be With You," choir; episode

6—Older Mother—Mrs. Rebecca Stokesberry; "Silver Threads Among the Gold" quartet.

C. E. Society Plans Program
The Christian Endeavor society of Grace Reformed church will hold a special Mother's day program Sunday evening at 7 o'clock, as follows: Processional, young people's choir; prayer, Rev. S. L. Fritz; hymn, congregation; scripture reading, Willard Ferrall; "Mother Machree," Miss Dorothy Glendinning; quartet, "Mother of Mine," Willard Ferrall, Paul Price, Willis Orr and Francis Fellers; "When Mother Prays," choir; talk on Mother's Day, Harold McCurry; offertory hymn; recessional; benediction.

The final of a series of special programs in observance of National Music week was held Wednesday evening when the Columbian Music Study club sang the cantata, "Light," by Richard Kountz before a large audience in the M. E. church. The program was under the direction of Mrs. Frank B. Horn of Youngstown, with piano and organ accompaniment by Mrs. Emer T. Coyle and Miss Martha Zimmerman. These ladies also played a piano-organ duet, Marche Militaire. Harry Hatzel favored with a violin solo and vocal solos were given by Miss Ernestine Boehme and Mr. E. Byra Evans, both of Youngstown.

Pythian Sisters Initiate
The ladies of Sunset temple, Pythian Sisters, held initiation of candidates at their meeting Wednesday in the Knights of Pythias hall, with 25 present. Lunch was served by a committee composed of Mesdames Ed. Myers, Ed. Fuhrman and Warren Chan.

The ladies of the Christian church will serve a chicken supper Saturday evening to the public in the church diningroom, between the hours of 5 and 7:30 p. m.

Miss Dorothy McGale is reported ill at her home, suffering from a nervous breakdown.

NEW WAYS TO SERVE ONIONS

A reader asks why we don't do more about the onion. She feels that apart from the boiled or fried onion that that vegetable is terribly neglected. I'm glad of this, for I have just collected some new and very tasty recipes using onions as the base. Onions have health giving properties that make a really valuable contribution to dietetics. Onions purify the blood and many people swear to the fact that a diet of onions in various forms is good for the nerves.

I lately heard that in many country districts, onion porridge is a sure fire cure for a cold. Onion porridge is concocted by boiling onions in milk, well seasoned with salt and pepper. The porridge must be eaten as hot as possible.

For Baked Onions

Baked onions are delicious. Here is the recipe: Take three large onions, skin, and boil for an hour. Drain carefully, and place in baking casserole. Into saucepan, put three ounces of butter, stir in half an ounce of flour, then add a quarter of a pint of stock, one teaspoon of pepper. Bring this to boiling point. Pour the mixture over the onions and bake for one hour, serving hot.

Perhaps you will like onion fritters prepared the following way: Peel six onions, cut into rounds then separate into rings. Roll them in flour seasoned with salt and pepper. Cook in a frying basket in deep fat, frying until a golden brown. Drain well and garnish with fried parsley.

And Now an Onion Pie!

Here is an onion pie that makes a nice luncheon dish. Peel and slice four or five large onions. Butter a pie dish, line it with fine breadcrumbs and put in a thick layer of onion, a seasoning of pepper and salt and a few bits of butter. Then follow with a layer of breadcrumbs, then more onions, and so on until the dish is full. Make the top layer of breadcrumbs. Pour a large cup of good gravy over all and bake for one and a half hours. If you wish, milk may be substituted for the gravy.

Nearly everyone likes fried onions. Here are some fried onion suggestions that we hope will be useful to you. Onions should be fried golden and crisp. After slicing they must be as dry as possible then plunged into fat so hot that blue smoke arises from it. It is easiest to use a deep fry pan and basket, draining the onions on kitchen paper in a warm place.

SERVE TROUT FOR LUNCHEON

Hostesses known for their beautiful table usually are famous for one or two special dishes around which it is comparatively easy to build a luncheon or a dinner, formal or informal, or a buffet. It may be a certain salad, a special fish chowder, or a way to make spaghetti into a luscious dish, but it must be something that will draw people to your table knowing that nowhere else can that particular dish be found in such perfection. This is one of the secrets of a successful guest table.

One recipe makes a supreme summer dish out of stuffed trout in jelly. This, with a variety of simple hors d'oeuvres and a plain sweet or a fruit cup, makes a meal fit for any epicure. It isn't a simple dish to prepare, but no real triumph can be evolved or concocted without effort.

Stuffed Trout in Jelly

First clean the trout, split it open and remove the bone. Make a stuffing by pounding cold cooked fillet of sole with the white of an egg, passing the mixture through a fine sieve and chilling it, then gradually adding enough heavy cream to make a fairly even mixture. Fill the trout with this stuffing, roll in waxed paper to hold it together, and peach slowly for ten minutes in a previously prepared "court bouillon". This liquid is made as follows: Place a sliced carrot and onion

Fighting Tax Evasion Charge

Charles E. Mitchell (right), former head of the National City Bank, is pictured with his attorney, Max D. Steuer, as they arrived at the Federal Court, New York, for the opening of Mitchell's trial on charges of income tax evasion on his returns of 1929 and 1930. The charge came as an aftermath to the banker's testimony before the Senate Banking and Currency Investigation Committee.

and stalks of celery and parsley in a pan with sufficient water and vinegar, highly seasoned, and cook together for half an hour. This "court bouillon" is a standby of important chefs, and they use it for all sorts of dishes.

With Watercress Dressing

But to get back to our trout, which we left being slowly poached in the bouillon. Allow it to cool in the liquor until very cold, then drain and decorate with a highly seasoned jelly flavored with tarragon, and serve surrounded with little mounds of chopped jelly.

The ideal sauce for this dish is watercress dressing. For this, make first a French dressing, three parts finest olive oil to one part of best French wine vinegar, with a pinch each of sugar, mustard, salt and paprika, and to this add enough finely minced watercress to make a thick mixture. Just try this dressing!

Breakfast and Lunch Combined

One of my readers, weary of giving the customary luncheons and dinners, has decided to give a "brunch," as she calls it—a combination of breakfast and lunch. She is to give this party on the first Sunday in June, and has asked our advice. Her party will be quite an open house affair.

Decorating the Table

Spring flowers will lend beauty to the house and tables; bowls and vases of gay flowers—most of all decorations—but our menu is the important thing. While it must be "breakfasty," too many definitely breakfast dishes wouldn't do, for this "brunch" must have a little of the luncheon flavor. So here is my suggestion:

Grapefruit Sections with French Strawberries
Corn Waffles with Maple Syrup
Baked Pork Sausage
Shredded Wheat Biscuits, Split, Toasted and Buttered Orange Marmalade
Coffee Tea Breakfast Cookies

Remove the membrane from the sections of grapefruit and put five on each plate in flower formation, with whole strawberries in between. One grapefruit will serve three. Heap a mound of powdered sugar in the center of each plate and leave caps and leaves on perfect berries, so that guests may pick them up by the stems and dip in sugar.

Hot Corn Waffles

The corn waffles are really good. I crisp and piping hot, are delicious. Spread generously with butter, letting it melt down into the biscuit, and serve with marmalade, jam or jelly.

Better Breakfasts

There are many breakfasts served in this country for which it is not worth while waking up at all, but it is worth while waking up early to eat a better breakfast like the one we are going to suggest. The strawberry season is here, and all you need to add is powdered sugar to make a delicious start to the meal. Then, for variety forget the eggs, and serve some of the creamed codfish that is so highly esteemed all along the New England coast. They know what they're talking about and tasting those New Englanders. But here's the whole menu:

Strawberries with Powdered Sugar
Cereal
Creamed Codfish on Toast
Fried Potatoes
Corn Dodgers
Coffee
Peach Preserves

After a breakfast like that, you're ready to do battle with the world. Here's the recipe for the main dish.

It Tastes Like More

Creamed Codfish on Toast: Make a white sauce of four tablespoons butter, four tablespoons flour, three cups milk and salt and pepper. Add the contents of a one-pound can of codfish and heat. Add one beaten egg yolk (reserving the white for other uses), and serve on toast. This will serve eight people, even if they eat a lot, which they will.

Be sure to serve fresh coffee, which is a synonym for serving one of the brands that is vacuum packed. They are as fresh the day they are opened as they were the day they were sealed in vacuum.

CHAPTER THIRTY-SIX

It was on the Monday morning that the boy Jabez brought a message to "The Crooked Billee." Mr. Ragg, sitting on the receipt of custom, tortoise-shell glasses on nose, eyed Jabez over the top of the "Wannington Clarion."

"Well, my lad?"

Jabez was blessed with a surly sense of independence. His bow legs and his big round head gave him the look of a bulldog.

"Well, my man?"

Mr. Ragg rustled his newspaper, and stared austere over the tops of his glasses.

"No check in here, please. What d'you want?"

"Anyone of the name of Wolfe live 'ere?"

"Mr. Wolfe is residing in my 'ouse."

"Well, 'e's wanted."

"Who by?"

"Old Crabbe, and 'e's to come sharp."

Mr. Ragg laid his paper on the bar counter, and eyed Jabez with austere simplicity.

"Don't know the gentleman. Old who?"

"Crabbe."

"Don't know him."

"Josh Crabbe."

Mr. Ragg shook a solemn head.

"Mr. Josiah Crabbe."

"Why there now, you should have said that before! But there—cut along, now. I'll see Mr. Wolfe has the message."

Nor did he smile till Jabez had left the bar.

"Funny," old Josh likes them like that! Can't abide an oily tongue! Well, here's something for him to bite on. Pair of nut-crackers! Get old Turrell's head into 'em! Boiled duck, but I should like to see it!"

He laid paper and spectacles down on the counter, got off his stool, and went with his slippers flip-flopping on the stones of the passage that led into the garden. An arbour, green and small, and white tables, set in the garden, green were shut in by high red-brick walls. At one of the tables sat Wolfe, the bowl of a clay pipe visible over one shoulder, a book propped up before him on an up-turned mug. Mr. Ragg looked at him with a kind of affectionate gravity.

"Sorry to disturb you, sir."

"Hullo!"

"Mr. Crabbe's just sent a message, sir. He wants you to oblige him by going to see him at once."

"Mr. Josiah Crabbe?"

"The same, sir."

"Is he ill?"

"Can't tell you, sir. Mr. Crabbe and you, sir, ought to be very good friends—if I'm taking no liberty."

Wolfe sat very straight, his chin turned towards one shoulder.

"Bit of a character, isn't he?"

Mr. Ragg rubbed his lower jaw.

"One word, sir."

"What is it?"

"He don't like jelly bass, nor oily tongues. You ain't that sort, though, sir. Just you speak it into him. Show him your forearm aye, and a bit of your boot."

Wolfe laughed.

"That's the line, is it?"

"Let him think you're afraid of him, and he'll be at you like a nippy dog."

Josiah Crabbe's house was very much his castle, with its high walls set with glass, its massive stone gate-posts, and its iron gates. These gates were always kept locked, and Adam Grinch opened them to Wolfe when he had pulled the bell-chain that hung down one of the stone pillars. Grinch showed a grim courtesy to the few people whom he happened to like. He and Wolfe had never exchanged three words, but the gardener had often had a look at Wolfe, and knew pretty well what manner of man he was.

"Morning, sir. Mr. Crabbe's expecting you."

"I had his message."

Grinch closed the gates with a faint clang.

"No need to go to the door, sir. You can get straight in by one of the long windows. Them's Mr. Crabbe's orders."

Grinch thrust in a brown forearm, and held back a green curtain.

"Dr. Wolfe, sir."

"Show him in."

Adam Grinch dropped the curtain behind him.

Josiah Crabbe was sitting in a cane-backed arm-chair between the round table and the fireplace. A red handkerchief covered his knees, and on the table within reach lay a little leather-bound book, a brass inkstand, and a long clay pipe. His black trousers were drawn up, so that the tops of a pair of white socks showed.

"Good morning, Come in."

"Good morning, sir."

Wolfe laid his hat on the round table. The little black-coated figure in the chair, with the red handkerchief spread like an apron, gave Wolfe an impression of surprising quietude and watchfulness. It did not move a finger or blink an eye. The only things that seemed alive were the two black eyes in the vellum-coloured face. They were like two points of light in the shadowy interior of the room.

"Sit down, Mr. Wolfe. So I hear you are leaving Navestock."

"It is not quite decided yet."

"I know Navestock very well, sir. I have known Dr. Thredgold for twenty years or more. No; I can't say that he has ever been inside this house."

Wolfe took one of the elm chairs that were ranged along the wall. Being a man who had been trained to observe other people, he was quick to notice it when he was studied in turn. Josiah Crabbe's eyes were the eyes of a swift and keen observer. In manner he was abrupt and quaintly familiar, a man who could not tolerate formalities and affections.

"You need not look me over, Mr. Wolfe."

"No?"

"I didn't send for you for the tongue and pulse business. Not for today, at any rate. I am a hard old party, hard as a nut. Though," and his eyes gave a queer twinkle, "I am disposed to be a little rheumatic now and again. Liver, too, a little sluggish, sometimes; but I'm hard, Mr. Wolfe."

Wolfe sat squarely, his eyes fixed on Josiah Crabbe's face.

"You look fairly tough, sir."

"A game bird, Mr. Wolfe."

"I would give you your fourscore and ten, barring accidents."

"What's my age now?"

"I should put it at seventy-three."

"Someone blabbed it, did they?"

"No."

"You are on the nail square."

He nodded his head and looked pleased. His eyes gave his wrinkled face an expression of alertness and vivacity. The thumb and forefinger of his right hand went into his waistcoat pocket, and drew out the little gold snuff-box.

"Inquisitive man? Very fairly!"

"Some of us have to be inquisitive."

"Doesn't make one popular. Know why I sent for you?"

"Not in the least."

"The genteel people want you out of Navestock, eh?"

"You may put it that way."

"And the town is a dirt heap?"

"Much of it."

"Except my property?"

"Except Peachy Hill."

Josiah Crabbe took snuff, sneezed at his leisure, and buried his face in his red handkerchief. His little black eyes gleamed out suddenly at Wolfe from behind the red bandana.

"Peachy Hill may be as bad as the rest."

"No, sir."

"Supposing I swear that it is."

"I shall have to contradict you."

"Got facts?"

"A fair quantity."

"Pretty conclusive, eh? Make you hold your nose! Turrell and company won't look at 'em, or smell 'em, I know, I know."

Josiah Crabbe spread the red handkerchief over his knees. He was very deliberate, smoothing it over and over. The wrinkles became more marked about his eyes and mouth.

"Well, Mr. Wolfe, well?"

"Well, sir?"

"A damned hypocritical world!"

"Parts of it."

"Love your neighbours, eh, and poison 'em with your drains! Peace and goodwill, and all that. Can't found nonsense! What the devil is Navestock to you?"

"Something—and nothings."

"They want to be rid of you. I know 'em. The pompous, upstanding, church-going scoundrels. What did I say—scoundrels? I meant the gentry, sir, the landowners, the petti-foggers."

He sat up straight in his chair, his hands twisting the red handkerchief. His voice became sharp and biting, but retained its noiselessness.

"Most men want to be loved clapped on the back, slobbered over in the papers. Goodwill, eh—love your neighbour, pity for the widow and orphan! What rot! Learn first to be hated, hated, I say, and feared. Then you build on something solid."

Wolfe leaned his elbows on his knees, with body bent slightly forward, his chin resting on his fists.

"You are right there, sir. There is something solid about hatred."

"It's bed-rock—bed-rock. Popularity—sand and slush. Get on the rock; clamp yourself down on it. They can't wash you off; they can't shake you, they can't make you squirm."

"That takes time."

"It took me twenty years."

"And money."

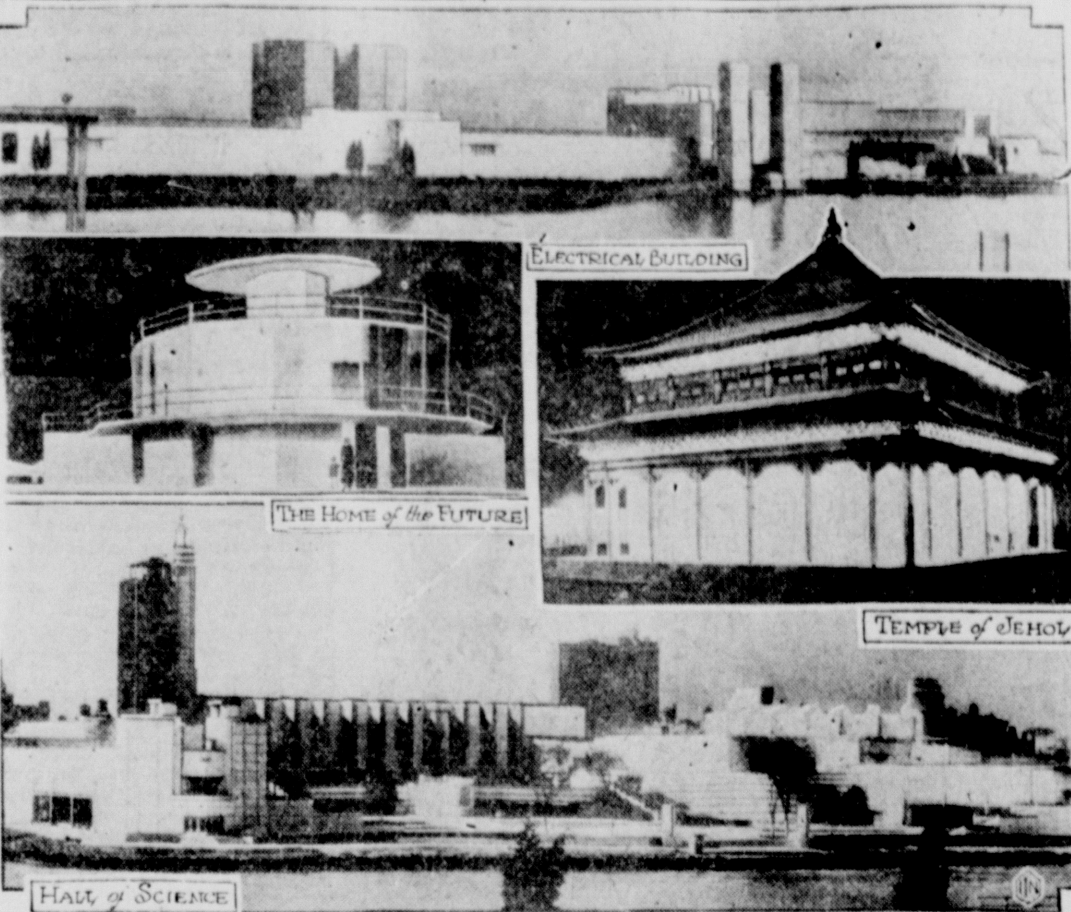

"The little man's eyes shone in his hard, flat face."

"Money, that's it. Get money. Hurt the beasts. Don't talk slush to 'em, damage their pockets. That's where an Englishman's heart lies. Get a grip on it, squeeze it, see 'em smart and crumple up. I'm here on the rock. They are afraid of me all these Turrells and Wilkoses and Crums and Johnsons, and the little peddling humbugs who cheat across their counters. They have been trying to drag me down for thirty years. Pooh! I'm solid. I have got solid stuff under me, money, property, feat. Don't talk about popularity. I'm a bit of granite, sir. They can't bring up anything against me. I have been a straighter man than any of them and they know it. Look at Peachy Hill! What's that but a knob of granite in the thick of a half-drawn bog!"

Chicago's Fair a World in Miniature

Almost Every Spot on the Globe Represented in $25,000,000 Show. Site of "Wonderland" Was Bed of Lake Michigan a Dozen Years Ago.

If you have ever wanted to view the wonders of the world, but lacked the necessary financial resources, you may attain your desire by a visit to the Chicago Century of Progress Exposition, which opens officially on June 1. Here, aided by a little imagination, one may make a tour of the globe at an infinitesimal fraction of what it would cost to make a round of the terrestrial sphere on which we live. What is more, only the beautiful things of the world will meet the eye in Chicago's pocket edition of the globe—squalor has no place in "the greatest show on earth." In a couple of skips one may go from old Fort Dearborn, the original Chicago, to the Golden Temple of Jehol, a reproduction of the original, built in China and transported to the shores of Lake Michigan. The visitor may marvel at the glories of Egypt in the time of the Pharaohs, stand in awe before the 18-story jade temple in the Chinese exhibit or watch the manufacture of silk from the lowly worm to the glorious evening gown. For Americans the Hall of Science and the Electrical Building will have the greatest appeal, for here are graphically illustrated, by working models, the tremendous strides taken by science in the last century. Too, one may view the architects' dream of the dwelling of the future—a twelve-sided house, constructed of steel and glass and provided with a garage for the family auto and a hangar for the family airplane. When one considers that only twelve years ago, the 600-acre site on which this miniature world stands was far beneath the waters of Lake Michigan, one marvels at the patience of the organizers and engineers of the great show and appreciates the magnitude of the task they have accomplished so well.

DEATHS

SMITH FUNERAL
A large number of persons assembled Friday afternoon at the Christian church to pay their last respects to Joseph T. Smith, one of Salem's oldest residents, who died Tuesday evening.

Rev. C. F. Evans, pastor of the church, preached the sermon and Salomon commandment No. 42, Knights Templar, had part in the rites. Mrs. Cora Schwartz and Mrs. R. D. Painter sang duets, with Mrs. Ruth Berry at the piano.

The pallbearers were Charles Pyle, Ira C. Hoopes, Ray Miller, W. F. Davis, R. D. Painter and H. A. Van Syoc.

Interment was in Hope cemetery. Some of the relatives and friends in attendance were from Greensburg, Pa., Canton, Cleveland and Damascus.

Paid By State
COLUMBUS, O., May 13. — Payments on current state aid for weak schools have been made by the state for the last two months, said Howard L. Bevis, state director of finance.

He explained the payments ceased when an emergency legislative act became effective granting the school districts authority to issue notes to meet delinquencies of $3,500,000 in teachers' salaries. Cigaret tax funds are being applied to the purchase of the notes.

B. W. Play Winner
COLUMBUS, O., May 13. — A play tournament sponsored by Ohio State university's English department was won by Baldwin-Wallace college, with "Pax Vobiscum," written by John King and Allen Woodman.

Marietta college won second place, Rio Grande third and Findlay fourth.

American Legion To Stage 26-Round Fight Show Next Friday

THE DAY IN SPORTS

RACING APPOINTMENTS
KEEP BILL GRIFFITH
ANOTHER ART SHIRES

GOVERNOR George White is a bit slow in appointing his racing commission which will have charge of the sport in the state.

"Blood Horse," a thoroughbred magazine published in Lexington, Ky., comes to bat with a story that two members of Ohio's first racing commission will be outsiders.

This story says William Dwyer, of New York, owner of the Coney Island track at Cincinnati, and Joe Cattarovich, of Montreal, owner of Bainbridge, are demanding two appointments to the commission. And "Blood Horse" is usually right. One prominent Ohio horseman has expressed the opinion that this seems hardly right. "Governor White does not appear to know a great deal about the horse game," he said, "but I cannot imagine him turning the sport over—and that is literally what it would mean—to outsiders."

"There are plenty of men in Ohio qualified by experience to handle this commission, and if they are not considered then the law should be repealed."

OHIO STATE university is in the midst of an economy move, cutting salaries, schedules and personnel. No doubt a wise move but many sports writers throughout the state believe that Ohio State is going too far when it curtails its athletic publicity bureau the first of July. On that date, according to reports, Bill Griffith the director of the bureau is through.

For years Griffith has been supplying the needs of sports scribes, not only in Ohio, but throughout the country. He has records, results and performances at his fingertips. Only a phone call or a wire is needed to get all available material on any subject pertaining to university sports.

It seems to these outsiders, these writers who after all are a great help to the university, that Griffith more than pays his own way at the school and that Ohio State could better afford to allow this efficient, necessary department to function unhampered.

THERE SEEMS to be another "Great Shires" in the making. Writes Jake Prong in the Dayton Journal.

The other day in a Mid-Atlantic league game at Dayton in the ninth inning with two men out and the tying and winning run on base, Len Shires, brother of "The Great" Arthur rushed to the dugout from the third base coaching line.

"Did you say you wanted me to bat, Skipper?" cried out Mr. Shires and at the same time stripping off his jacket. Ducky Holmes, Dayton's manager, wasn't even thinking of Shires at the moment. The fact of the matter is, he had just pointed to another youngster to pinch hit when Shires picked up his club.

"Yes, go on and bat," came back Mr. Holmes, still wondering where the boy got his nerve. As it turned out, Mr. Shires forced the runner at second and Dayton lost the ball game, 7 to 6.

Here's just a little prediction to mark down in your hat band. To be recalled the latter part of November or the first of December.

The football team that wins the western conference championship this fall will be invited to participate in the Tournament of Roses game at Pasadena, New Year's day—and that team will accept.

OLYMPIC CHAMP TO MEET GENEVA LAD IN MAIN GO

Carmon Barth, Cleveland,
Tackles Tony DeMarco
In Ten-Rounder

WRESTLING MATCH ALSO SCHEDULED

Jackie Holt, Canton, To Tackle Billy Burns In Semi-Final

Planned as the final show before the advent of summer, a 26-round boxing program will be staged at the Memorial building auditorium next Friday night under auspices of Charles H. Carey post No. 56, American Legion.

Olympic Champ on Card
Involving such famed leather-punchers as Carmon Barth and Billy Burns of Cleveland; Tony DeMarco of Geneva, O., and Jackie Holt of Canton, the card is declared by legionnaires as the most attractive ever sponsored by their organization. Twenty-six rounds of boxing are scheduled.

In addition to the ultra-attractive leather-punching entertainment the Legion post is arranging a 30-minute limit wrestling show between two popular maulers.

The amateur middleweight champion of the world—this is the title held by Barth, famed Cleveland hero who recently won the plaudits of fans by a thrilling victory in a semi-final battle of a Pittsburgh show featuring personal appearances of Jack Dempsey and Max Baer. He won his world title in the 1932 Olympic games at Los Angeles, Calif., one of two Americans coming through the gruelling international competition with a championship.

Meets Tony DeMarco
Barth battles Tony DeMarco of Geneva, brother of the famous Cuddy who has displayed his skill as a battler before Salem audiences on several occasions. But a youth, Tony is declared to be rising to heights parallel to those attained by Cuddy and is expected to give the Olympic champion a hard battle.

An inkling of Barth's ability will be given local fandom through the information that the lad recently gained a decisive decision over Jimmy Mollette, the clever Alliance stylist, and is undefeated since joining ranks of pro battlers. He meets DeMarco in the main argument booked for ten rounds.

Billy Burns, a stablemate of Barth, both of them fighting out of the gymnasium of Manny Robins, will perform in the semi-final, meeting Jackie Holt of Canton. Holt needs no introduction to the district's fight bugs—he has been piling up one victory after another in the Stark county area for several months until opponents for him have been hard to find.

Salem Lad In Prelim
A Salem lad, fighting under the name of Kid Hunt of Harrisburg, in one of two four-round prelims. They will meet at 132 pounds. Ed Jackson of Cleveland, vies for honors with Al Muir of Canton in the first prelim. They're heavyweights.

A return argument between Pettie Perroni, clever Canton lad, and Walter Dickey of Salem, planned as the main preliminary, was erased from the card because of a sprained ankle sustained by Dickey this week.

Here's the complete card as announced by H. E. Zeppernick chairman of the Legion's fight committee:

Main Go
Carmon Barth (Cleveland) vs. Tony DeMarco (Geneva), 10 rounds, 160 pounds.

Semi-Final
Billy Burns (Cleveland) vs. Jackie Holt (Canton), eight rounds, 145 pounds.

Prelims
Young O'Neil, (Salem) vs. Kid Hunt (Harrisburg), four rounds, 132 pounds.
Ed Jackson (Cleveland) vs. Al Muir (Canton), four rounds, 175 pounds.

Ruth Still Has Ambitions of Crashing Out 60 Homers; Injury Jinx May Upset Hopes

Errors Beat Tribe, Yankees Regain 1st Place; Cinci Wins

Two infield errors and five consecutive singles gave the Philadelphia Athletics five runs and a 7-3 victory over the Cleveland Indians, dropping the tribe back into second place after holding the American league lead for one day.

The idle New York Yankees automatically returned to the top and hold the edge by a few percentage points. Although they touched Roy Mahaffey for only four hits in eight frames, the Indians were leading, 3-2, going into the ninth. A mental error by Johnnie Burnett and a misplay on an easy ground ball by Bill Kretschmer after two were out started things, Wesley Ferrell blowing up completely.

Connally Replaces Wes
The A's pounced on Ferrell's offerings to send in four runs when which Sarge Connally came in but it was too late. Bob Grove took up mound duty for the A's in the last of the ninth and retired the Indians in order.

Ed Brandt, great southpaw of the Boston Braves, soon will be ready to declare a personal day of rejecting any tie his team makes go out and get him a half dozen runs in a single game.

The star left-hander has been pitching as good ball as he ever did this spring—perhaps a bit better—but his record for six games shows only two victories against four defeats. Only one of these was won or lost by more than one run and the four tallies the Braves scored in 11 innings to beat the St. Louis Cardinals 4-3 yesterday was the best scoring feat they have performed for "Dutch" yet. In five previous games they got him only six runs and 37 hits all told.

Reds Wallop Dodgers
The defeat left the Cards with a rather shaky hold on third place, as the Cincinnati Reds walloped the Brooklyn Dodgers 7 to 3 to pull up within half a game of St. Louis.

With the aid of Walter Beck's wisdom, the Reds scored six runs in the first inning. Beck loaded the bases with none out and Chick Hafey cleared them with a home run.

The Giants gave the day's best exhibition of slugging as they reversed the decision against Pittsburgh's league leaders, 11 to 3. Starting when Blondy Ryan hit a homer with two aboard in the fourth, the Giants piled up 14 hits to win easily.

The Phillies fell on Pat Malone and Lynn Nelson in the seventh and eighth innings, scoring seven runs and beating Chicago 8 to 4.

Signs $60,000 Contract
When the pros and cons of Ruth's demand for a $60,000 contract were being discussed this spring, the prediction was freely made that he would be unable to play in more than 100 games in 1933. Appearing in only 100 games, he obviously would be unable to hit 40 homers, and probably not that many. But the Babe really believes that despite his advancing years, weak underpinning and barking dogs, he will be able to play in close to 154 games.

Ruth realizes that 1933 likely will be the last year in which he will have any chance of approaching his world record. With that in mind, and also his ambition to belt at least 48 circuit clouts to swell his all-time major league total to an even 700, he has been playing when he should have been in bed. He caught a heavy cold a couple of days before the season started and did not succeed in shaking it off until a few days ago.

Has Chance For Record
When you consider that the home run maestro managed to collect five round-trip wallops during April, despite his weakened physical condition the goal he has set does not appear too ambitious. His April output was better than that in any year except last season, when he got six homers in April. In 1927, when he set the record of 60, he hit only four in April.

September was the Babe's best month in 1927 but July usually is his banner month. Being a left-handed hitter, he naturally prefers to bat against right-handed pitchers, who have been the victims of more than 400 of his 657 circuit wallops. As far as clubs go, he prefers Detroit as the opposition. He has nicked Tiger pitchers for 113 homers.

Ruth is glad that the other home run twin, Hungry Lou Gehrig, is again setting a fast pace for him this season. When Louis hits one out of the park, there is just so much more incentive for the "Big Guy" to swing one when his turn at bat comes.

PROFITABLE

Marshall Tossers

SPRINGFIELD, May 13.—A ninth-inning rally that netted three runs brought a 6 to 5 victory for Marshall college over Wittenberg's baseball team.

This despite the fact Wittenberg outlived the visitors, 12 to eight.

HARTNETT TOPS NATIONAL LOOP BATTING FIGHT

Chicago Cub Star Gains
48 Points; Schulte
Leads American

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, May 13.—Leo "Garry" Hartnett of the Cubs and Ben Chapman of the Yankees have become important figures in the major league batting races during the past week, doing their hitting in a big way while the rain-shortened schedules held most of the changes in the averages of the leaders to a few points, one way or another.

Boosts Average 48 Points

Hartnett boosted his average 48 points and went up from fourth place to first in the National, winding up after yesterday's games with a .402 average. Chapman, moved from fifth to second in the American with a 27 point rise to .377.

Fred Schulte of Washington held the American league lead although he dropped 17 points to .393, while a 20 point drop sent Johnny Frederick of Brooklyn into second in the National at .371.

Chuck Klein of the Phillies kept pace with the week's leading hitters with a 30 point gain that gave him a tie with Johnny Vergez of New York for third place in the National, and his long-distance hitting gave him almost a monopoly on the slugging leadership. He led in three departments with 32 hits, 25 runs batted in and 10 doubles and was tied with Hartnett and Wally Berger of Boston for the home run lead with six.

Gehrig Leads Scoring

Lou Gehrig of the Yankees was a trifle ahead in the American league slugging contest with 24 runs and seven homers for two undisputed firsts and a tie with Jimmie Fox of the Athletics with 21 runs batted in.

SIGAFOOS GAINS IN BATTLE FOR HITTING TITLE

Indianapolis 2nd Baseman Boosts Average Up to
.443 This Week

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO, May 13.—After losing 42 points a week ago, Frank Sigafos, Indianapolis infielder, stepped out in front in the American Association batting race.

Gains 25 Points

Sigafos' performance represented a gain of 25 points for the period, according to figures which include Thursday's games. It also put him 37 points ahead of Irv Jeffries, St. Paul's hustling second baseman, who moved back into second place at .406. Frank Doljack, Toledo outfielder, was only a point behind Jeffries.

Sigafos also led in total bases with 55, and had 12 two-base hits for another top mark. Joe Hauser of Minneapolis, although he was well down the individual list, led in home runs and runs batted in. He connected for three more homers to lift his total to nine and had pre-pled in 33 runs. Jimmy Adair of Louisville, replaced Joe M

The President was shot to death by an assassin.

Crawford and Barrymore In New Pictures at State

Joan Crawford

John Barrymore

SOME of the screen's leading performers will play in films scheduled for the State theater next week.

There are Joan Crawford, John Barrymore, Jack Oakie, George Sidney, Charlie Murray, Maureen O'Sullivan, Myrna Loy, Gary Cooper, Robert Young and Franchot Tone.

Miss Crawford Here Sunday
Sunday brings to the State "Today We Live" Joan Crawford's latest vehicle and she has three leading men—Cooper, Young and Tone. The latter was seen here recently in "Gabriel Over the White House" as the secretary to the president.

The plot was taken from the novel by William Faulkner and directed by Howard Hawks of "Scarface" fame. Faulkner has written a story about the dramatic experiences of an English girl who offers her services to England during the World war in an ambulance unit and falls in love with an American flier.

Besides the star and her three talented leading men, Louise Crosser Hale, superb character actress, and Roscoe Karns, comedian play important roles.

Double Bill Scheduled
The program at the theater for Wednesday and Thursday is a splendid one. There is plenty of drama and comedy in the two pictures that make up the bill.

First there is "Topaze" considered an excellent film and starring John Barrymore and then those two clowns—George Sidney and Charlie Murray in another of the series of the "Cohens and the Kellys".

This time it is "The Cohens and the Kellys in Trouble" and there is a mighty fine cast assembled to support the stars—it includes Maureen O'Sullivan and Frank Albertson in the romantic leads; Andy Devine, the husky lad with the deep southern voice; Henry Armetta, the funny little Italian and Jobyna Howland, a fine comedienne.

Pie Plant Pete Booked
Pie Plant Pete, singing radio artist will make a personal appearance at the State Friday and Saturday along with the picture, "Soldier Be Good," starring Jack Oakie.

The radio star will have his guitar and mouth organ and will sing some of his hill-billy songs.

Okie's picture should be one long laugh from the beginning to the climax. It concerns a sailor who fights for his living and who suddenly finds himself married into society.

SAN MARCOS, Tex.—Henry Ivey, 15, received only a sprained finger during the entire football season. This spring he was persuaded to play volleyball, although he objected because he termed it a "sissy" game. He broke his arm during a tilt.

HELENA, Mont.—State revenue from 453 beer licenses totaled $83,100, the state board of equalization has announced. Further licenses remain to be granted, and the state income from the source is expected to come near the $100,000 mark. At the time of the announcement a total of 873 license applications had been received.

BONITA, Mont.—Roving dogs killed many deer in the forests surrounding Bonita last winter, forest rangers report. Led by a trained hunting dog, the animals would make a kill, then return to domestic life. Only a few of the hunters were seen and killed.

FIGHTS AND FASTS
THE UNIVERSE
EUROPE WORRIED

By Arthur Brisbane

(Copyright, 1933 By King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

POOR GANDHI, victim of his sincerity and devotion to the poor, lies in the sixth day of his fast at Poona, India, too weak to move or lift his shrunk arms to work at his pathetic "hand loom" or spinning wheel, with which he asks India to oppose the giant textile industry of Britain.

He has 15 more days to go without food. He will keep his vow, and doctors fear that he cannot live through it.

If he dies there will be some disturbance, then oblivion that covers millions of devoted men and women that have sacrificed themselves vainly.

One good fight for freedom is worth a thousand fasts.

IF YOU TIRE of earthly facts and figures, read Sir James Jeans' book, "The Universe Around Us," previously mentioned here some time ago. We feel sorry for deep-sea fish, living a mile down in the ocean, seeing a few specks of light above, knowing nothing of what goes on outside their kingdom of water. We might feel sorry for ourselves, living at the bottom of our atmospheric ocean, seeing a few specks of light, that we call stars, knowing nothing about the real universe.

An excellent portrait study of Harry Murch, 16-year-old Queens, N. Y., boy, who is on trial charged with the murder of a 12-year-old playmate, Willie Bender, last January. Murch is shown in Queens County Court, as he listened to the testimony on his case.

On Trial for Murder

Looking as if he were on his way to school instead of going to face a charge of murder, Harry Murch, 16, of Queens, N. Y., is shown as he arrived at court for the opening of his trial. He is charged with stabbing Willie Bender, a 12-year-old playmate, to death in an abandoned house last January. Young Bender's body was found two weeks after his death by a building inspector.

will find them in Jeans' book. The "electric disturbance" that reaches your ear through the radio receiver travels around the earth seven times in one second. Traveling at the same speed, it would take a million years or more to reach some of the "island universes" outside our little corner in space.

EUROPE is worried by Hitler's demonstrations and his demand for equal annuities. Europe ought to know that Germany is not going to stay forever under the onerous terms of the Versailles treaty, but even the British, who want no more war and dislike to threaten idly, talks about the treaty "sanctions" held as a club over Germany's head. This means that Rhine territory might again be occupied by the allies, assuming that they could get together long enough to do it.
